

Celebration! Evening at the famous Sadler's Wells

On October 30th, at Sadler's Wells, the Bolshoi Ballet artists danced alongside London Russian Ballet School students in the Celebration! program (where Natasha Tsukanova is a member of the committee). The artists were accompanied by award winning musicians in front of an audience to include over 550 underprivileged children from Lambeth, who attended the performance for free.

This was an incredible opportunity to see artists from the Bolshoi Ballet in an ambitious extension of LRBS outreach work with children from one of the most deprived London boroughs. These children could never ordinarily have dreamed of a theatre experience, so imagine the impact on them when world class Russian ballet dancers shared their art with these London youngsters in a world class theatre.
